

Come. Take a pen. Write without stopping. Write without judgement. Write without control. Let it flow. Stay at places you have never been, leave places you will never be at, give words to the unknown, to the unconscious. Make a journey. Expect the unexpected. Together.

Who is going? Where?

Discover, share, change your patterns by writing.

Workshop Adress

Open to actors and directors, who would like to experience new impulses by writing. Open to creative people, who are curious to discover new aspects of them selves by writing.

Space

Offer of a playful, protected and confidential space.

Searching for personal congruence and coherence with others.

Possibly finding common topics or contradictions.

Political or/and social. (What is political?)

Concrete process of the workshop

My invitation: asking questions and accompanying „writing units“ about terms, concepts, topics, dreams and visions. After writing we would share the written words.

We would not discuss the issues themselves during the workshop.

Tools

I am working with tools of creative and intuitive writing. „Finding by writing“

Experience

After a "burn out" ten years ago, I began to better connect my creative work and issues with internal impulses. That helped me to find new energy and astonishing impulses.

Goal

The workshop is meant as a playful space to re-create and to re-define our positions. What are we burning for?

Now and here.

You don't need to bring anything else with you than paper and pen.

Language: english.
